the soul of paper is a blackness

burning shows
within the white.

in burning,
leaf and gravity
unpeel,
lifting—
via ember and excision—

toward matter's last horizon;

leaving,
by carbon trace, by

factless dreamings,
by less than ash and
allhow small intimations—

the grammar of the gone